Archaeologists studying forts' history

HISTORY SEEKER--Archeology student Lynda Gulleson points out ancient knife marks on a split bone found at the site of the native encampment next to the fur trading forts of Fort George and Buckingham House.

The treed benchlands above the North Saskatchewan River, where the hunters of three great tribes brought their furs and pemmican to trade with two rival trading posts almost 200 years ago, are the focus of a summer search for insight into the impact of the meeting of native and European cultures in the fur trading days.

Little remains visible of the twin forts, the Hudson's Bay Company's Buckingham House and the North West Company's Fort George, or of the native encampment that stood nearby--to the average eye, that is. But to University of Alberta Archaeology student Linda Gullason and her three teammates, the area teems with the past, just waiting to be discovered.

Ms. Gullason points to a series of darkened rocks: a sign of a campfire of two centuries ago. A shallow square pit nearby has yielded fragments of burnt bone, a charred beam, square nails and lumps of chinking, indicating that this has been a building site. A large animal bone lying nearby shows the marks of a knife, and has been broken in two, apparently to get to the marrow.

The area where she and fellow U of A students Ann Reynolds and Jeff Bailey and University of Calgary student Paul Spinard are conducting their work, she says, is the Fort George Plantation, where the Cree and Assiniboine hunters bringing in their furs, and the Blackfoot bringing their pemmican, set up their lodges as they prepared to visit the forts.

Growing hope for forts' restoration

The crew came to the site almost a month ago, and spent their early days hacking away the thick undergrowth and dividing the area into sections designated with bright orange surveyors' flags. Now, the site is pockmarked with a number of shallow, two foot square 'test units', each cornered with a numbered stake, where the density of the soil has been carefully tested and recorded, and any interesting finds carefully stashed in labeled paper bags. Work is conducted with pointed trowels, dustpan-like scrapers, and brushes to remove the soil a tiny layer at a time.

A large digging, with a dirt pile topped with a suspended screen sifter alongside, yielded only some bone and a thumbnail sized hide scraper, Ms. Gullason said. 'We saw a large hump, and some depressions, and thought we had found something...but it was probably just an old anthill.'

A large concentration of fire-blackened rocks and intriguing bumpy terrain is this week's project. 'It looks exciting...we may find something here.'

What they hope to find are artifacts which will show the retention of native ways, such as arrowheads and hide scrapers, plus the addition of the European influence which came with the fur traders: such things as metal needles, glass beads and the like. Ms. Gullason feels that in previous studies of the coming of the fur trade to the west, 'the historians have neglected the concept of the meeting of cultures. I think that it is important, and deserves to be looked into.'

4-H exchange tours Alberta

Eleven Ontario 4-Hers, plus an equal number from the St. Paul 4-H District, are touring Alberta this week, following a busy weekend with the host families in our area. This visit, and a return visit to Ontario by the St. Paul group, are sponsored in part by the Open House Canada Program.

Ten 4-H members from 6 clubs in Wellington County, Ontario, and their chaperone Lynda Austin arrived in Edmonton July 14, and were met by their hosts. Their first full day in Alberta featured a ball tournament hosted by the Heinsburg 4-H Club, followed by a supper at the newly reopened Whitney Lake campground, with over 80 members, leaders, parents and guests in attendance.

Following introduction of the hosts and their visitors, a number of presentations were made. Regional 4-H Specialist Yvonne Love, Vermilion, Regional President and St. Paul MultiClub leader Dorine Kuzma, MLA John Drobot, County Councillor Bill Ference, and Elk Point Town Councillor Steve Stepaniuk brought greetings and gifts of pins and provincial flags. Pamphlets on the history of Fishing Lake Metis Colony, salt samples and souvenir booklets from the Canadian Salt Plant, and Town of St. Paul pins were also presented. Silk flower arrangements were presented to Ruth Vogel and Marie Yuschyshyn, who were instrumental in maktendance.

Saturday and Sunday were on the itinerary as 'days with host family' but in reality, included a variety of activities, from tours of the oilfield, to fishing expeditions, to watermelon eating contests.

Monday morning saw the visitors and hosts perched on St. Paul's Landing Pad for one last photo before the group embarked on their Alberta tour, clutching souvenir mugs from Goodridge and bags of travel information from the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce. First stop was at the Provincial 4-H Heifer Show in Bashaw, then on to Drumheller to tour the badlands and the Tyrell Museum. Today, they will leave the Drumheller area and travel via Three Hills, Olds, Red Deer and Sylvan Lake to their overnight campsite at Nordegg. Tomorrow they will see the Columbia Icefields en route to Jasper, where they will again be camping out. Friday the group will visit West Edmonton Mall, before spending the night at the Leduc Inn. After a farewell breakfast on Saturday, the 11 visitors will board their plane for home, while the hosts head back to our area to rest up for their trip to Ontario in August.

The airline flights for both groups are sponsored by the Secretary of State and the Canadian 4-H Council, under the Open House Canada Program. To raise money for the Alberta tour, welcome supper, and expenses for the local 4-Hers on their Ontario visit, the exchange participants and their parents ran a series of 5 bingos in St. Paul, raising over $7000. The Ontario visitors found sponsors to help with their expenses.

Hosts for the exchange were Richard Belland and Lyle and Marie Yuschyshyn of the St. Paul MultiClub, Corey Vogel, Rosanne and Kevin Wirsta of the Elk Point MultiClub, Doyle Skolarchuk and Rhonda Laboucane of the Heinsburg Beef Club, Randy and Rodney Black of the Goodridge Beef Club, and Remi Ouellette of the St. Lina Beef Club.

Visiting from Ontario were Sandy Reid, Darlene Brodhaecker, Beth MacRobbie, Donna VanDerHeyden, Scott Bessey, Jeff Jackson, Rod Whale, Kathy Sharpe, Deb Brunsveld, Christine Kerr and Lynda Austin.

Council allots Recreation, Culture grants

Elk Point Town Council allotted a total of $10,000 in Community Recreation/Cultural grants at their regular meeting Monday night, which also saw approval of the final draft of the new Recreation and Cultural Master Plan.

One of the seven applications submitted for CRC funding was rejected, while several others were cut to adhere to the basic ratios between recreation and culture, capital, operational and planning requirements.

The Elk Point Golf and Country Club will get $3350 of the $10,000 they had applied for, while the Ukrainian Dance Club will get $2000, the Municipal Library Board $1900, the Curling Club $1500, North Hill Playground Association $750, and the Parent Nursery $500. Elk Point Historical Society was deleted from the list because of the sizeable CRC grant they received last year, plus the Town's contribution of a PEP position to the Society.

It was noted that most of the organizations who applied serve the needs of the rural community as well as town residents, and that it would be only fair that the County of St. Paul be approached by those groups for CRC funding as well.

The final draft of the Elk Point Recreation and Cultural Board's new Recreation and Cultural Master Plan was accepted, and the Administration directed to prepare a municipal bylaw for its adoption.

One of the primary needs, as shown by the recent survey which was part of the Master Plan's fact finding process, was for a new community services centre. Council will advise the Recreation and Cultural Board to proceed with the establishment of a steering committee to come up with a concept for the new facility.

Council decided to table a search for a new member for the Recreation and Cultural Board until September, following the resignation of Holly Burton from the Board. Ms. Burton is leaving the area.

The names of Lawrence Pidluzny and F. G. Miller High School will be submitted by Council to A1 Cable Systems Inc., with the recommendation that the responsibility for operation of a community cable channel be designated to Pidluzny and the school. Pidluzny has indicated that he feels this would be a good addition to the school's program and would fit in well with computer and business education courses.

Alberta Agriculture's St. Paul office has expressed an interest in establishment of a sub office in Elk Point, and has approached the Town regarding use of a portion of the Town Office for one half day per week on a temporary basis. Council approved use of the Council Chambers for this pilot project.

Council's final duties of the evening were to proclaim Monday, August 1, as a civic holiday for Heritage Day.

Fort George, Buckingham House restoration possible

In 1792 two trading posts sat high on the banks of the North Saskatchewan River just a few miles east of where Elk Point now rests today. Trappers and Indians came many miles to trade their furs, much coveted by eastern Canada and Europe. Close to 200 years later, there is growing hope this historical site can be restored and become a major tourist attraction for the Northeast.

The plan to restore Buckingham House, erected in 1792 by the Hudson Bay Company, and Fort George, built by the North West Company, isn't a new one. It has been something the Elk Point Historical Society has had on the books for a number of years.

While they are convinced such a project would be a major tourist boon for the northeast, the historical society has to convince the provincial government likewise.

Ernie Isley, Bonnyville MLA and minister of Public Works Supply and Service, said that while there is nothing in the budget, he believes the Elk Point project is near the top of the historical development list.

"When the next two (projects) come out of the budget process, hopefully we (the northeast) can have one of them," Isley said.

"We need at least one major drawer of the rubber tire traffic. We need something to lure them (tourists) into the northern half of the province."

Historical society president Frank Mayner said the project has been "in the mill for a number of years," but recently, in the last four or five years, the government has begun to take an active interest and a feasibility study of the proposal was undertaken by the historical site services division of Alberta Culture.

"They told us this project was high on priorities for restoration at some date," Mayner said.

There are several options for potential restoration of the sites. They range from full restoration of the forts as they existed back in 1792 down to minimum development such as marking out where the buildings once stood and including a few interpretive signs.

The historical society fully supports the complete restoration option but what is done will depend heavily on the government and if and when they grant any monies to the project. Such a development would cost several million dollars.

Mayner firmly believes the Northeast must pull together in lobbying the government for approval of this project.

"We have to show that we are interested as an area. We must have the cooperation of northeast Alberta."

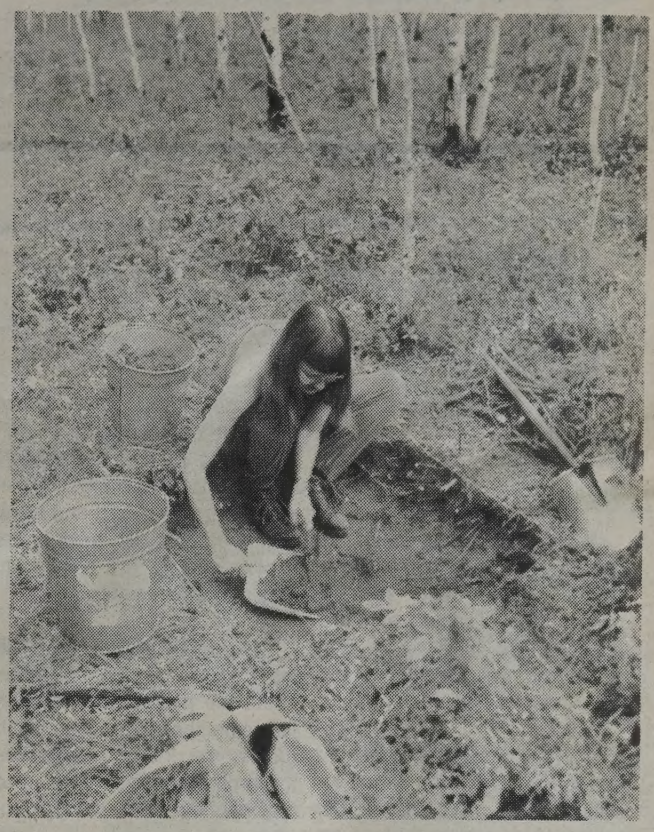
Grant Tolley, senior planning officer with historical site services, said the Buckingham House/Fort George sites have "major significance in so far as the early fur trade is concerned".

"From an economic point of view an increase in tourism would be a real boon to northeast Alberta," Tolley said.

Little has been done in the Northeast in the way of historical development, Tolley said. The Victoria Settlement near Smoky Lake is about it.

He said the Elk Point proposal is now being considered for next year's budget but said the final decision rests with the politicians.

"I think it's a worthwhile project and I'd like to see some form of restoration done. Time will tell."



SLOW AND CAREFUL WORK--Ann Reynolds brushes layer after layer of dirt from her latest excavation into a dustpan as she seeks artifacts at the Fort George Plantation site. Although the history she is seeking is far newer than the Classical History she studies at the U of A, Ann really 'digs' her summer job.

Garages join 'Bring 'em back alive'

Three hundred automotive repair facilities around the province have joined the Alberta Motor Association's summer safety campaign, "Bring 'Em Back Alive!", in time for the mid-summer long weekend.

The garages, all inspected and sanctioned by the AMA's Approved Auto Repair Service (AARS), have been provided with "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" promotional material to distribute to customers.

The safe-driving reminders will reach Alberta motorists preparing for a holiday trip on the August long weekend by having their vehicles checked at trustworthy establishments. AARS facilities must meet rigid auto club standards and agree to submit disagreements over repair bills to the AMA for arbitration.

The "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" program now is supported by the provincial government, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the news media, community groups and local businesses around Alberta. All join in reminding motorists that wherever they go this summer with family or friends in the car, the drive is to "Bring 'Em Back Alive!"

For the August long weekend, the AMA will again guide travellers with "Holiday Weekend Highway Reports" on a network of radio stations around the province. In addition, the auto club's Courtesy Road Patrol will give free assistance to any stranded motorist encountered on major routes into and out of Calgary and Edmonton throughout the weekend.

Visitors welcome

Visitors--they come to Elk Point from all over the province, all over the country, all over the continent, and all over the world.

We've had 4-Hers from Ontario, a circus complete with elephants, camels and shetland ponies from Missouri, and tourists from as far away as Germany and the Ukraine, in our area in recent weeks.

Most are on holiday, some are on business, but for whatever reason, they have visited our town and its facilities. Have we made them welcome?

The 4-Hers certainly were--80 people from all over the county turned out to greet them. The circus folks, who had a breakdown at one of our service stations, were offered prompt assistance, and even the loan of a vehicle to go into town if their trip could not be resumed quickly. Visitors from far away were introduced at the Stoney Lake Rodeo, and given a warm round of applause.

But are the average tourists passing through treated equally well? Our tourist booth is staffed with hospitable and knowledgeable people, ready to point the way to the area's attractions and facilities. Hopefully, the staff at the stores, services and points of interest will also have a welcoming smile and a helpful attitude ready for their visits.

The scenery and the good fishing is not all a tourist remembers about the places he has been. He remembers the clean washrooms, the friendly waitresses, the prompt service. He also remembers the snarly campground attendant, the clerk who seemingly didn't care about selling another souvenir, the gas jockey who left the windshield all bugs.

With unstable conditions in our two major industries, agriculture and oil, tourism is becoming ever more important as a source of revenue. To keep those tourist dollars flowing in, we must make an attempt to get those tourists to increase in number, to increase the length of their stay, to come back and see us again, and to tell their friends about us.

Make them welcome--and don't forget to smile!

Don't forget...

WE CAME UP OUT OF MEL'S COULEE — And saw the farm buildings across a no longer used dugout, ringed with willows and cattails.

I. Magnusson

The road home, etc.

By Irene Magnusson
Alberta Trails

I promised a run-down on my trip home from the Fairview Family Reunion, but I may as well mention the trail we followed going up there, too. 'We' being myself and my Aunt Jennie, and a very full load of sleeping bags, foam mattresses, pillows, tent, tarps--anything I could think of that might come in handy, should someone arrive with no place to sleep.

There was another Reunion going on the same weekend, a school reunion, no less, so motels were booked weeks in advance. I couldn't bear to think of anyone, foolish enough not to book well ahead, arriving and having no spot to rest their head. As it was, only the sleeping bags were utilized.

We decided to break the trip, and stay overnight in Sangudo, where my sister-in-law lives, and she was willing. We left Elk Point about 2:00 p.m., going up Highway 28, to Namao, then west to Onoway and No. 43. This is a sneak road, which kept us out of the city, and the first time we went over it, it was barely gravelled. Now it is paved, a somewhat winding 'cringe' road, but not as narrow as the one north of Elk Point. There wasn't much traffic, the sun wasn't low enough to annoy, and we almost reached the divided road before we knew it.

Amazingly enough, I pulled into Sangudo on the 'back' entry, and turned up the right street, found Alberta's house on the first try, and so felt quite smug, as we had always come in the other entrance before, and never with me driving. It DOES make a difference.

Well fed, with a good night's sleep and a lovely visit behind us, we pulled out about 10:00 a.m. the next morning, a bright sunshiny day. Alberta would be coming along a couple of days later, with other family members. We gassed up at Fox Creek, and I got a map, pins and brochures from the Tourist centre. After lunch at Valleyview we turned west, toward Grande Prairie. It then started to rain, almost without clouds, but they soon showed themselves. Now, I'm all in favor of a bit of rain, but this got carried away. It pelted. Later, I learned it had rained ferociously here at home, too, some 3 inches plus. Our godsend. However, about 20 minutes into the rain, I felt drips on my lap, started falling on my hand on the wheel. The force of the wind, and my speed, was sending the water under the rim of the windshield. We found some paper kleenex, then a plastic bag, and I dug some towels out of my luggage. This I wore in my lap, until we got to Mel's place, six miles south of Fairview.

It was unnerving, to say the least. I did not enjoy my crossing of the Mighty Peace at Dunvegan, as it was so misty, and I was moderately terrified that I'd meet one of those monster trucks on the bridge. Instead, we met three in a row, and we lived, so on we went.

As mentioned last week, we had our Reunion, all went well, a lovely time, and so nice to see the dear folks again. And on us the sun did shine.

Monday, I was set to go home, but some coaxing decided me to stay until tomorrow. Sunny, and warm, I went with Mel out to the dump (about which got more rapid, then drops 15 miles away) with the residue of our 3-day gathering, and in the afternoon, he and I walked down through his coulee (would you believe that word isn't in my dictionary?) which is not a dry ditch, but has a lively stream, and tall trees, and a pond, where they keep a small boat, at times. We walked along one side, crossed over on a fallen log, and returned along the edge of his sodden field.

Then we stayed up until after midnight, over at my cousin Ellen's place in Fairview, so I was too soggy to start for home on Tuesday. Went instead with Mel to Grande Prairie, where I haven't been for years, as he had some business there, saw more relatives, and the murals they have all around the town. Later, I packed everything, Mel patched my leaky windshield, and we heard the forecast say 'more showers.'

Determined to take a different road home, I opted for No. 2 Highway,

Letter to the Editor

Can you help?

Dear Editor:

Do you remember the song 'Coat of Many Colors'?

I, too, had a very special coat, mine was rose colored and had a wide brimmed bonnet with blue ribbons.

My coat is missing, and I hope one of your readers will be able to tell me where it is.

Here's the story: Last year I was asked if I would have any clothes that could be used for a fashion show of styles over the years.

I was assured all items would be catalogued and given the greatest of care.

I was pleased to be able to contribute a box of items dating back to the forties, but made special mention of how precious my coat was to me and asked that it get special care.

When I heard that some of my items had been cut up to make futuristic costumes a tremble of horror went through me, but then I was assured my coat and bonnet were fine.

Due to unfortunate circumstances I was unable to attend the fashion show, and in the confusion that followed I completely forgot about my box of items.

To date none of my contribution has been returned to me, and in April when I made enquiries, I was told my coat and bonnet were missing.

Numerous phone calls have been made by me, with no leads.

I was told the coordinators of the fashion show are now too involved in other things and that is why my pleading phone calls had not received a reply.

In my book of ethics, 'busy' has nothing to do with broken promises and lack of respect for others' possessions.

This coat is rose, size 4 or 5, has a matching bonnet as mentioned, and was made for me by my mother. I remember wearing it with pride, as did my daughter, and I had dreams of my granddaughter wearing it.

Where is it? It has to be out in this big world someplace.

Thank you, Editor, for the space, and thank you to anyone who can help me with clues as to where my coat could be, or better still, its return.

Thank You

ASHBY, Sophie

The family of Sophie Ashby extend their sincere thanks to all friends, neighbors and relatives for their support during our time of bereavement.

We express our appreciation for all the food donated and the ladies for preparing and serving the lunch after service. A special thank you to all who sent flowers, cards and donations for her memory.

Thank you to Rev. Sam Donaldson for the comforting service. Also the choir and the United Church. Thank you to the pallbearers. Honorary pallbearers and to all who helped at the cemetery. Also thank you to Yewchin's Funeral Chapel Ltd.

From Ella & Ed Hillebrand & Family; Shirley Ockerman & Family, Henry Ashby, Mary Rivard.

WHAT'S NEWS at the Library

By Michelle Whitlock

The Elementary and Pre-school Summer Reading Programs are a success! The turnout for both programs has been exceptional this year, but more are always welcome. The pre-school program has already enjoyed making and flying their paper-bag kites and feet-painting up a storm! Approximately 35 elementary children have been participating in the Library's ongoing Monoporead game. Last week the children played outdoor games such as croquet and lawn darts, and enjoyed a limbo contest. If you haven't already joined the Summer Reading Program, this is your chance!

This week the pre-schoolers will be going on a nature walk where they will have a chance to take in some of the natural beauty of their home town and do some stone painting as well. The elementary children will be taking a nature walk as well, but making a beautiful nature garden will be their craft this week. Put on your walking shoes and come and join us!

Don't forget the Thursday Matinee for kids. This week's movie is entitled Charlotte's Web--an all time favorite of everyone! It starts at 2:00 p.m., but be at the library a bit earlier to ensure good seats. If you have any TOY spiders, bring them for this spidery event!

We would also like to take this opportunity to thank Rhondaray Confections for donating all of our movies to us. Last week's movie, D.A.R.Y.L., was quite a success! Approximately 35 children came. Once again, thank you.

Summer bug bites

If there's anything bad about summer it's bug bites, In most people, an insect bite or sting produces only a mildly painful swelling, accompanied by redness and itching. Bee and wasp stings, on the other hand, can cause severe allergic reactions in some people. Allergic people could have difficulty breathing, experience nausea, vomiting, or hives and swelling around the eyes and mouth. If any of these signs occur, get medical help immediately.

While you wait for medical aid, St. John Ambulance advises that you:

- remove the sting carefully by scraping it and the poison sac from the skin; do not use forceps or tweezers because squeezing the sting will inject more venom.
- help the person to take the medication prescribed by a physician for the allergic reaction.
- apply rubbing alcohol, a weak ammonia solution or a paste of bicarbonate of soda and water. Rubbing alcohol or ammonia should not be used around the eyes.
- if the sting is in the mouth, give the person a mouthwash of one teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda to a glass of water, or ice to suck. It there is much swelling in the mouth or breathing difficulty, monitor closely and place the person in the recovery position.
- monitor breathing and start artificial respiration if required.

St. John Ambulance teaches first aid with an emphasis on safety and accident prevention. If you're interested in taking a course, contact the St. John Ambulance office nearest you.

The road home, etc.

around by Peace River Town. There was a very light rainfall as we left, which increased steadily, until we were driving in a full scale rain. My windshield held it out, thank goodness, and I forgave Mel all his many transgressions for having fixed it so well for me. I'm not sure I could have stood nine hours of the Chinese water torture. However, the wipers developed a most annoying squeak/shriek, and I had to run them full speed all the way home.

The exact distance from my farm (including in to Elk Point to pick up Jennie) to Mel's farm, via Sangudo, is 477.3 miles. The distance home from Mel's farm, via Peace River, Slave Lake, Westlock, Thorhild and No. 28 to Elk Point and home, is 458.2 miles, and that includes the detour we had to go on this side of Slave Lake, where the water was running over the highway.

They sent us off up a paved road, which turned into a gravelled road, but before that I, and many others, drove through 5 places where the water over-flowed the highway. I THOUGHT it to be about a foot deep, but it seemed like two or three. The great plumes of water sent up by the preceding vehicles were scary, but I had to take my turn, and so I did. There were moments when you could see nothing but the great slosh of water cascading over the windshield, as the wind caught the splash, but thankfully the car proceeded ahead, and not sideways, as I feared, and into the ditch.

When the Highway Patrols finally waved us to this detour, I lost all sense of direction. The clouds were heavy, the rain was heavy, and after we turned off onto the sparsely gravelled part, the road was heavy, with (to me) barely enough room to pass the big trucks we met. There was a giant oil plant, and/or sawmill, which I presume was the reason there WAS a sideroad for us to detour on. At last we came to a broad paved highway again, but I didn't know whether to turn left or right, to get me on down the trail to home sweet home.

A truck pulled up behind me, then, as he saw I wasn't moving, beside me. 'Which way?' I hollered. 'Where are you going?' he says, 'Edmonton?' 'No!' I screamed. 'Highway 28. St. Paul. Elk Point!' 'Left!' he says, pointing. So I turned left.

When we finally came to a wide spot in the road, where I could stop and study the map, I saw we also could get to Edmonton that way, but I was careful to follow my signs and directions, and indeed we did get home, and in good time, too, all safe and sound.

I phoned Mel and Aline as soon as I got home, and they had been frantic, thinking we got washed away at Slave Lake, where they had closed the roads very shortly after we had passed by, and gave themselves over to combatting flood and furore as the waters rose and the rain fell.

And that's the longest trip I ever drove in one sitting, by myself, and I guess I could do it again--but I was glad to be home that night.

Woody ornamentals add beauty to garden

When choosing woody ornamentals there are many things to consider. While most people have some idea of what they want in terms of ultimate plant size, shape, or color, these are only a few of the things upon which to make choices.

Hardiness is an important consideration. If a plant is known to be not hardy, then it should be rejected. On the other hand, there are plants of borderline hardiness which are worth trying.

Another important consideration is compatibility. This is not simply the compatablility of plants with other plants, but the compatability of the plant with the lifestyle of the user. One plant should not interfere with the growth of another. As well, plants should not make work for the gardener. Even the devoted enthusiast is unable to enjoy the most enchanting ornamental if its bad habits create excessive problems.

Several aspects of ornamental characteristics should be considered when selecting plants. Because scale is so important in the appreciation of landscapes, the ultimate size of the plants used is important. There is an unfortunate tendency among home gardeners to select plants that grow to a size that is so far out of scale with their surroundings, that they feel they must chop the plants down to size, rather than remove them.

Another important characteristic of ornamental plants is texture. Texture is determined largely by the size and coarseness of leaves. A combination of both fine and coarse textured plants adds to the interest of a landscape.

Woody ornamentals can be selected to provide interest on a year-round basis. Plants with colorful bark, interesting branching habits and attractive fruit have a great deal to offer throughout the winter.

During the growing season, two additional ornamental characteristics are considered important. These are leaf color and flowering habit. The predominant leaf color in the landscape is green. However, some leaf color variety exists and it ranges from variegated white and green or yellow and green, to golden, purple, through to silver. Plants that change color in autumn add interest to the landscape. Flowering shrubs and trees are important sources of summer color. By choosing plants that flower at different times, blossoms can add color to the landscape for several weeks.

The characteristic of form is something to be considered when selecting plants. Form is important in combining plants to achieve effective contrasts or harmonious combinations. The ornamentals with the most distinctive form characteristics are the conifers. Among the conifers, there is the columnar form of the arborvitae, the pyramidal form of the spruce, the globular form of mugo pine and the horizontal form of some junipers.

A final consideration for plant selection is its attractiveness for wildlife. Woody ornamentals may be chosen to supply animals, most often birds, with shelter, nest sites and food.

Although we often feel Alberta's climate limits our plant selection, more often the limiting factors are space, money to buy all we want, or time to maintain the plantings. With some careful thought plants can be chosen to meet several needs. Here are some examples to help get you thinking:

Amur Maple (Acer ginnala) - can be a small tree, deeply cut leaves give interesting texture, ball shape, good autumn color.

Sea Buckthorn (Hippophae rhamnoides) - can be pruned to a small tree and so suitable for small yards, silvery leaves provide interest all summer, orange/yellow berries ornamental all winter.

Eastern White Pine (Pinus Strobus) - long needles, fine textured, winter color, compact pyramidal form when young, shelter for birds.

Snow Hill Hydrangea (Hydrangea arborescens 'Grandiflora') - coarse textured leaves, large white flowers in mid-summer.

Golden Plume Elder (Sambucas racemosa 'Plumosa-aurea') - interesting texture from finely cut leaves, golden throughout summer, white flowers, red fruit, liked by birds.

Love, Your Children and Grandchildren

It's only logical . . .

Q: A person can swim the same distance in a lake as they can in a pool?

A: No! Canadian lakes are filled with cold water. In cold water an individual will likely swim only 1/10 of what they could easily swim in warm water.

Wagon train journey a success

By Myrna Golden

The Elk Point and District Light Horse Association has completed its second successful Wagon Train. This year, our group consisted of 9 wagons and between 25 and 30 riders.

The first night, we all gathered at Spring Park Hall. Our first day on the trek we travelled up to Garnier Lake through some very scenic trails. It was a weary bunch of horses and people when we reached Garnier, as it was our longest and hottest day.

Rev. Sam must have had a word with the Man Upstairs, because the next day, we managed to pull into Frog Lake about half an hour before the storm hit. Boy, were we a wet and bedraggled bunch when we pulled into Lindbergh on Wednesday! Of course, to add insult to injury, it rained again while we were camped there for the night. But, Wagon Trainers being the kind who don't let their spirits get dampened, we cheerfully set out the next day for Elk Point.

Thursday evening, the weather was lovely and the barbecue was DELICIOUS! Also that evening, we had our awards presentation, with the awards going as follows: Farthest Away: Bertha Dixon and Vivian Stults of Edson; Oldest: Roy Scott; Youngest: Cassie Irvine; Door Prizes: Cassie Irvine, Arla Irvine, Myrna Golden, Shawna Brunner, Dale Hennig and Nicole Scott.

On Friday, we finished the Train with the Canada Day Parade and gathered at the north end of town.

The Club hopes everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves and with a little luck, we can do it again next year. As last year, we plan on combining our Wagon Train Reunion with our Fall Poker Rally which will be held October 1 and 2. Our club is also holding a Family Fun Show and Gymkhana on August 21. Please watch for posters and advertisements showing these coming events.

The Horse Club would like to extend sincere thanks and appreciation to the following individuals and businesses for their help with our Wagon Train: John Myshaniuk, Gray and Stella Stone, Neil and Mary Nelson, Marlow and June Stone, Alfred and Loretta Opanivicius, Ken and Nellie Hillebrand, Dennis and Marge Hefferman, W. WAGONS, HO!--The Elk Point Light Horse Association's 1988 wagon train wound through the scenic woodlands north and east of Elk Point for five days on their way to a rendezvous with the Elk Point Canada Day Parade, which wound up their journey in style. A Tax Cut For All Albertans

Take a close look at your paycheque.

Since July 1, the provincial tax cuts announced by the Provincial Treasurer in the 1988 Budget have left you with more take-home pay. This tax cut means a saving of more than $185 million for all Albertans, especially for those with low incomes.

Because the Government made this tax cut retroactive to January 1, 1988, please check that you receive the benefit of this reduction of taxes on your paycheques for the remainder of 1988.

Albertans accepted a fiscal plan to balance the budget by 1990-91. Now we can all benefit from the fact this plan is on target.

Albertans have paid the lowest taxes overall in Canada.

Now we are paying even less.

MONTANA BOUND! — These 40 senior 4H members and 4 chaperones will be travelling to Forsyth, Montana. The 4H Exchange takes place July 13 - 26.

4-H region members in Montana exchange

Forty senior 4-H members from across the Northeast Region were selected to participate in the Montana '88 4-H exchange July 13, 1988 to July 26, 1988. The 4-H members will be accompanied by four chaperones. In the summer of 1989, the Alberta delegates will host Montana.

The planning committee consisted of Chairman Patrick Manderson, Jennifer Babiuk, Kevin Babiuk, Pauline Lipkewich, Mrs. Mary Ternoster, Mrs. Delores Younger, and Ken Younger.

The travel route will be as follows: On July 13, 1988 the members will board the bus in the morning and travel to Waterton Park, Alberta where they will be staying overnight. The next day they will stop and sight see along the way to Bozeman, Montana. On the 15th, the group will travel to Forsyth, Montana where they will meet their host families from Treasure and Rosebud Counties.

After staying with their host families for eight full days, the group will have a long trip home. On July 26, 1988 the group returns to Alberta. Then the members will separate and anxiously wait for the Montana delegation to come to Alberta.

Each individual has planned to take a gift of appreciation for their host family.

We, the committee would like to thank the Northeast Regional 4-H Council for making the trip possible.

NOTE: This news release was written by Jennifer Babiuk from the Brosseau 4-H Beef club and Lakeland Riders 4-H Light Horse Club. She is a senior member on the planning committee.

4-H'ers participate in Conservation Camp

Soil erosion and water management were only two of the environmental concerns addressed when Jason Zayac of Derwent and Tammy Boychuk of Brosseau attended last week's Alberta 4-H Conservation Camp. They were two of 64 - 4-H members to participate in the week-long session held at Battle Lake, 100 km south of Edmonton.

Sponsored by Alberta Power Limited and TransAlta Utilities for the past 23 years, the conservation camp gives 4-Hers from the ages of 14 to 19 the opportunity to learn about conservation from specialists in a variety of areas. Each youth chooses to study in two of five areas of conservation: forestry, soil, water, range and fish and wildlife.

Zayac felt the subject made his week's stay worthwhile. "We learned a lot about our environment," he says. "We can use what we studied to inform other people in our community about conservation.

The relationship interconnecting the five resources is reinforced by the camp's overall theme, "Five is One". Group discussions and study sessions are led by resource specialists from Alberta Environment, Alberta Fish and Wildlife, Alberta Agriculture, Olds College and the Alberta Forest Service.

Henry Wiegman, provincial 4-H agriculture specialist with Alberta Agriculture is the organizer and director of the camp. He feels one of the long-lasting benefits of the camp is the commitment of participants to promote the conservation message in their local communities.

"All camp members are urged to conduct programs when they return home that help promote the resource conservation concept," says Wiegman.

To further encourage the 4-Hers to communicate the message of conservation the utilities sponsor the Grant MacEwan Conservation Award. This award is named after the former lieutenant-governor who is a strong proponent of conservation. It is given annually to recognize the delegate who best communicates the conservation message to the public in the year following the camp.

This year's winner, Laura Pimm, of Grimshaw, gave numerous speeches in her area, submitted articles to several publications and set up conservation displays at her high school and local fair. She will be presented with a commemorative plaque and a $300 cash prize at the Alberta Weekly Newspaper Association convention in September.

An editorial session was presented by Alberta Power and TransAlta representatives to start the delegates on their way to promoting conservation. "The electric utilities are committed to furthering conservation awareness among Alberta's youth and we hope the message is spread long after the camp is over," says Barb Kuester-Chan, Alberta Power community relations representative.

Representatives from the companies also gave presentations on safety and energy awareness and conservation.

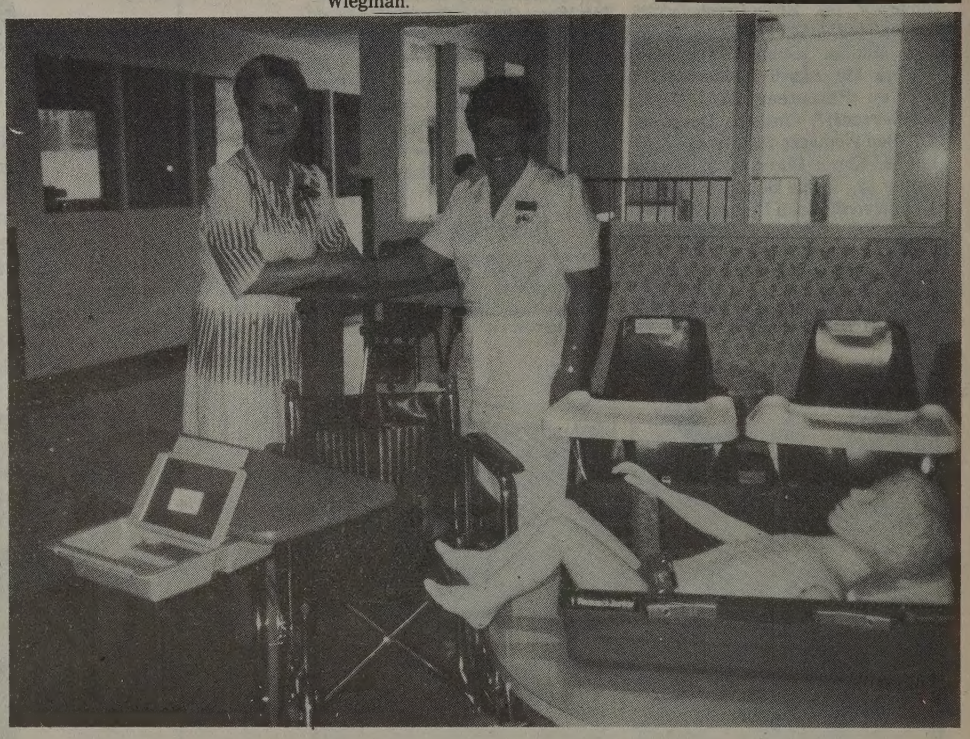
New Democrats keep in touch

Members of the New Democrat Official Opposition Caucus will be in St. Paul August 24 to meet with local residents. The MLAs, Bob Hawkesworth of Calgary Mountainview, Marie Laing of Edmonton Avonmore and Bryan Strong of St. Albert, are taking part in a day of outreach activities as a part of a two-day retreat being held in northeastern Alberta. Other members of the New Democrat Caucus will travel to Lac La Biche, Smoky Lake, Athabasca and Bonnyville.

The three MLAs visiting St. Paul will focus their discussions on the economic development and native affairs issue areas. Group leader Bob Hawkesworth says the purpose of the outreach day is "to ensure that the New Democrats keep in touch with all residents of the Province by listening and open, honest dialogue. As the Official Opposition in Alberta, we have a responsibility to listen to average Albertans and to represent their concerns in the Legislature. We want to ensure that those who have concerns about the direction the Conservatives are taking our Province have an equal opportunity to be heard."

The MLAs expect to meet with various groups and organizations but also want to make themselves available to anyone who has a concern regarding Provincial Government programs or policy. If individuals or organizations are interested in meeting with the MLAs, they should contact the Official Opposition office at Zenith 22333 (toll-free) or at 427-2236 (Edmonton) to make an appointment.



Hospital Auxiliary presentation

VIOLET MC FAYDEN--a founding member of the Elk Point Hospital Auxiliary, accepts thanks from Diana Anderson, Director of Nursing, at the Elk Point Hospital's Pediatric ward, surrounded by a number of articles presented by the Auxiliary.

Included in the bundle of needed articles are two overbed tables (one open, showing mirror), two vinyl highchairs, a folding wheelchair, and a life-like vinyl child-size model, complete with a carrying and storage case, used to illustrate life-saving techniques such as mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, for First Aid classes.

The cost of these articles was nearly $2000, and was provided from the funds collected and earned by the Auxiliary through raffle, canteen sales, Hospital Tea and Bazaar, sale of rags, etc., through the past year.

Mrs. Anderson decides what would benefit the patients and be of most use to the staff, and makes these suggestions to the Auxiliary, who then purchse the equipment, in keeping with their means.

Other activities od the Auxiliary include manning and stocking the canteen, providing the pop machine, providing tray favors for patients on special days, and many other things, all helping to keep our Hospital the top-notch facility it is.

Squirts champs in successful season

By Pat Vincent

The Elk Point Squirts girls' softball team, coached by Coral Tremblay and Jim Hawkins, claimed the Lakeland Minor Ball League championship at the league's playoff tournament in Cold Lake, Alberta on Sunday, June 26, 1988.

The Elk Point Squirts team became only the second local minor ball team to win a league championship, the first being the Elk Point T-Ball team in 1987, the first season Elk Point was a member of the LMBL.

The 1988 minor ball season was a tremendous success in numerous ways. Firstly, there were 134 players registered, on nine teams, in eight categories and two divisions of ball. There were many baseball and softball games played. Many volunteer parents gave generously of their time to coach our minor ball teams. Many individuals contributed their talents as umpires so these games could be played. The devoted and unfailing support of parents, brothers, sisters and community residents encouraged the young ball players at every game.

The Elk Point minor ball program came of age in 1988 through the generosity of the Elk Point business and corporate community. As a result, each minor ball team was in uniform by the time the league championship tournaments were played.

A recap of the Elk Point minor ball teams, coaches, sponsors and outcome of their 1988 season follows:

Elk Point Mites--Coached by Donna Kubista and Donna Lypka, team sponsored by Westmin Resources Ltd. (sweaters and caps).

Elk Point Squirts--coached by Coral Tremblay and Jim Hawkins, team sponsored by Elk Point Minor Ball Association (uniforms), League Champions, League Championship Tournament.

Elk Point Pee Wees--coached by Daphne Schnurer, team sponsored by Empress Family Restaurant (uniforms).

Elk Point T-ball--coached by Doug and Donna Bassett, team sponsored by B & R Transport (sweaters), B Side Champions, League Championship Tournament.

Elk Point Mites--coached by Ernie Poulin and Roy Watson, team sponsored by E-Can Oilfield Services Ltd. (uniforms).

Elk Point Mosquitoes I--coached by Ron Ballas and Pat Vincent, sponsored by Elk Point & District Lions Club (uniforms).

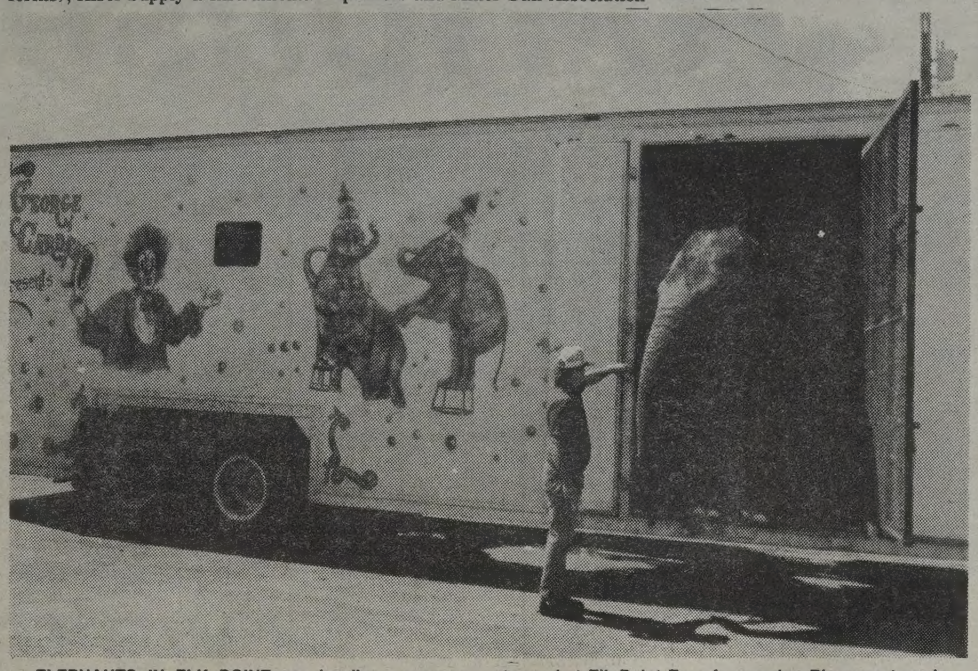
Elk Point Mosquitoes II--coached by Blaine Easthope, team sponsored by Denny's Auto Body Ltd. (uniforms), B Side Champions, League Championship Tournament.

Elk Point Beavers--coached by Tim Legg, Harvey Aarbo, Vern Blanchard, team sponsored by Canadian Salt Co. Ltd. (uniforms and caps), B Side Champions, League Championship Tournament.

Elk Point Midgets--coached by Terry Rae, Phil Sheplawy and Vic Stepa, team sponsored by Amoco Canada Petroleum Co. Ltd. (uniforms), Kiser Supply & Instrumentation Ltd. (ball caps) and Westmin Resources Ltd. (first aid kit).

The growth of the minor ball program in Elk Point is a positive indicator of the support and success that minor ball has enjoyed. I wish, therefore, to take this opportunity to doff my cap to the participants, coaches, sponsors and Minor Ball Association executive who have all had a role in contributing to the sunshine of success in which we are now able to bask.

We will look forward to your continuing interest and support when minor ball hears the call, 'Play Ball,' and another new season commences in 1989.



ELEPHANTS IN ELK POINT--are hardly a common sight, but last week a truck from George Carden Circus International, Springfield, Missouri, accompanying this semi loaded with elephants, camels and performing Shetland ponies, developed mechanical difficulties and stopped at Elk Point Esso for repairs. Big news travels fast, and we were on hand to see the elephants' door opened for an airing, before they continued on their way to Fort McMurray for their next performance.
